FORD TO FIGHT NLRB FINDING IN WAGNER ACT

Says Decision Is "Wrong and Unjust, Based On Prejudice"

WILL CARRY FIGHT TO SUPREME COURT

Auto Company Is Directed To Re-employ 29 Persons

(By Associated Press)
DETROIT, Dec. 24.—The Ford Motor company, described by the National Labor Relations Board as a violator of the Wagner act which displayed "unconcealed hostility" toward unionization, prepared today to fight the board's decision in the United States court of appeals.

The company said immediately after the board's finding were announced last yesterday that the decision was "wrong and unjust" and "based on prejudice."

Will Go To High Court
Announcement of the appeal was in line with the general understanding in Detroit that the Ford company eventually would go to the supreme court of the United States, if necessary, to defend its views on management and labor.

Main points in the board's findings, based on a lengthy hearing held in Detroit last summer:

The company must reinstate 29 employees the NLRB said were fired for union activity.

It must cease discouraging membership in the United Automobile Workers of America or any other "bona fide" union.

It must desist in its efforts to interfere with the rights of self-organization of labor through threatening, assaulting, coercing, beating or otherwise intimidating by force, propaganda, criticism or disparagement, this part of the order to include a ban on the use of vigilantes or other similar groups such as the Ford service department insofar as the latter is employed in restraining union activity.

Paid For Loss of Time
The employees ordered reinstated are to be paid for loss of time and restored to the same positions from which they were discharged, without loss of seniority or other rights.

Larry S. Davidow, attorney for the UAWA, said that whatever action was taken by the 29 discharged employees to seek the reinstatement ordered by the NLRB would be as a group and through the union.

He said that the company, on procedure probably would be held today but predicted that no action would come until next week.

WM. F. VAUGHN SERIOUSLY HURT

Bliss Co. Superintendent Struck While Crossing Street

William F. Vaughn of 933 Homewood ave., superintendent of the E. W. Bliss Co., was seriously injured when hit by an automobile on downtown East State st. shortly after noon today.

Attaches at the Central Clinic hospital, where he was taken after the accident, said he suffered a cerebral concussion, broken right leg and dislocated shoulder. His condition was described as only fair.

Vaughn was struck by an auto driven by Eugene Pestil of East State st. while he was crossing the street in front of The News office.

Hurled Into Windshield
The impact hurled Vaughn into the windshield of Pestil's car, which was traveling west, and thence into the front of a machine driven by B. C. Crapster of the Depot rd. Crapster was traveling east.

Vaughn was crossing from the south to north side of East State st. to join his wife who was sitting in their parked car in front of The News office. He was thrown several feet into the air when struck by Pestil's car and on the down-fall his head crashed into the windshield of the Pestil machine, breaking the glass.

Crapster became involved in the mishap when Vaughn fell from the windshield.

Ashes Are Removed, and Put Back Again

Service Director Frank Wilson has his troubles.
Only yesterday he had the men in his department clean up dirt and debris from Salem streets.

Part of the dirt had been scattered during the last icy spell. To day when streets again were covered by a sheet of ice, service department workers showered the streets with ashes to aid vehicular traffic.

Now another cleanup day looms.

LOWER ISSUES MARKET REPORT

Cooperating Farming Hits $2,041,000 Figure During '37

LISBON, Dec. 23.—Cooperative farming under the auspices of the agricultural extension service marketed and purchased $2,041,000 in commodities in Columbiana county during 1937, a report completed today by Floyd Lower, county agent, reveals.

Half of the total accrued to members of the cooperatives from the sale of milk, egg, poultry, potato and wool sales added another quarter million to rural income. Milk sales represent the volume handled by nine Dairy Cooperative associations.

Approximately $750,000 was expended by associations purchasing cooperatively. Fertilizer, feed, seeds, machinery, gas, oil and other supplies were purchased at a considerable saving through quantity buying. Gasoline and oil volume doubled in two years, the report states.

Poultry, Egg Sales Up
A 40 per cent increase in poultry and egg sales was reported by Lower during the current year. Nearly 2,000 cases of eggs and 1,825 coops of poultry were sold. Potato sales aggregated 75,250 bushels with 103 growers participating. Over ten tons of wool were marketed by 64 sheep men.

The report embodied recommendations for correcting a five-percent per cent annual loss in land productivity. These included use of 8,400 fewer acres for soil depleting crops; conservation of 5,000 acres of idle land to permanent pasture.

Age - Old Desire, Peace, Good Will Hope of Church

(By Associated Press)

Peace on earth; good will toward men, the age old Christmas greeting, dominated the hopes of the nation's leading churchmen today.

The Associated Press brings you Christmas messages from leaders of all large denominations.

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, D. D., Protestant Episcopal bishop of Chicago:

"It is from Him the light of the world, that all the big hearted, neighborly kindness at this season flows. The Christmas church has kept this feast alive. Without the church, there would be no Christmas spirit abroad in the world today."

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, of the Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago area:

"Christmas is a matter of spirit rather than a matter of commerce. It is necessary that Christmas shall be kept Christian. May the Prince of Peace reign and rule in the hearts of men and among the nations of the world. May His kingdom come and His will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of the Methodist Episcopal church, of Omaha:

"Peace and good will! These are gifts indeed. May the Bethlehem child inspire our wise men and workmen until His ideals are actualities, and peace and good will reign among men."

George Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of the Chicago diocese of the Roman Catholic church:

"So great was the joy of the church, even in its infant days, that like a great conflagration it spread into every part of the world, into the life of every people, down through the ages, so that Christmas

CUSTOMS MEN TAKE LETTERS FROM JAP SHIP

Writings Are Called Suspicious By U. S. Agents

SEIZE TUNA SHIP AT LOS ANGELES

100 Extra Guards Are Established at Mare Island Yard

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—The navy tightened its guard over the entire Pacific coast today following seizure of a sheaf of letters, described as of a suspicious nature, from a Japanese liner and capture of a Japanese fishing boat by U. S. Customs agents.

Destructors continued their patrol off San Diego and San Pedro, fleet bases. Mare Island navy yard at San Francisco was ringed with 100 extra guards.

Confirms Raid Reports
Reports of a raid on the Japanese liner Tasuta Maru by customs agents just before sailing time at San Francisco were confirmed by U. S. Attorney Frank J. Hennessy.

The agents garnered a sheaf of letters, supposedly connected with operations at the Bremerton navy yard on Puget Sound yesterday.

Hennessy said he did not know the letter's contents.

The government men acted in secrecy, but the San Francisco Chronicle said customs agents and postal inspectors have redoubled their efforts in recent weeks to intercept letters of a suspicious nature, addressed to undisclosed far eastern destinations.

Seizure at Los Angeles harbor of a 100-foot tuna clipper, the Nancy Hanks, registered to an American-born Japanese, was followed by an announcement by federal officials that another, and possibly five more boats suspected of Japanese ownership, would be detained.

Owned By Japanese Subject
They alleged the Nancy Hanks actually was owned by Y. Suzuki, a Japanese subject, although flying the American flag and entering port duty free for more than five years.

A libel-in-admiralty action, filed against the clipper, would allow it to sue for damages, if upheld. Nearly $1,000,000 in unpaid duties are involved for the seven suspected craft, federal officers asserted.

Meanwhile several destroyers prowled through southern California waters.

They "tailed" ships, including the Japanese freighter Kanai Maru, into Los Angeles harbor and at San Diego the navy patrol halted and investigated several fishing boats.

It was reported here the Mexican government had ordered gunboats to keep a close check on Japanese fishing boats off the coasts of Lower California and Sonora, following allegations alien hydrographic experts were sounding and charting the waters.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

The world never grows tired of Christmas, though it is a holiday apparently subject to the same influences of boredom and neglect which have caused other holidays to lose their significance.

There is a simple, but powerful, reason for annual renewal of Christmas spirit, year in and year out, through good and bad times, through war and peace. It is the fact the spirit of the holiday is purified at each interval of resurgence by the power of love.

This is so whether Christmas be celebrated, as it should be, as the greatest holiday of Christendom, commemorating the birth of Christ, or whether it be celebrated, as many do celebrate it in these modern times, with only passing thought of its religious meaning. Each year Christmas marks a vast and widespread demonstration of the power of love to create a better world.

That explains the phenomena of the Christmas spirit—all the amazing acts of kindness and generosity which each year renew men's faith in one another's goodness.

It explains why so vast a portion of the world's population yields at least once each year to an impulse of kindness and generosity, seeking through thoughtfulness and the giving of gifts the peace and contentment of unselfish humanitarianism.

It explains why thousands of men and women give generously of their time at Christmas to bring joy to the world's unfortunate, why they literally exhaust themselves in an intensive effort to secure to themselves knowledge they have left nothing undone which was in their power to do for those who need help. These persons are, perhaps, the truly blessed; they gain most from Christmas.

They are, of course, a minority. If a majority ever were to consecrate itself so unselfishly to the Christmas spirit, there would come into existence forthwith an almost new world, for the Christmas spirit—the Christian spirit—cannot reach perfection on Dec. 25 without constant practice of Christianity during the preceding 11 months.

It is the amazing and peculiar characteristic of Christmas that so many men and women should employ it eagerly and graciously to attain a spiritual rebirth, so frequently neglected during the rest of the year.

For a few days, a few hours, or possibly only a few minutes, they lay aside the armor of cynicism they wear at other times to let their best nature shine through, finding in the happy smile of a child, the pleasure of a friend, or the devout gratitude of someone who needs help the Kingdom of Heaven on earth—within themselves.

It is not formal religion which causes them to do this so much as it is the spiritual instinct in men which makes formal religion possible. It is proof of a quality in human beings sometimes forgotten, the quality which makes the vast majority of them instinctively want to follow the pattern of life so beautifully begun in the manger at Bethlehem where the Christ child lay—giving assurance to the world then, as He still does today, that redemption through love is at hand, awaiting only man's decision to use it.

IT'S ALL POLITICS

Anxious and frantic yelping against an investigation of the Davey administration because that would be politics—a warmup for next year's state campaign—leaves the audience cold.

There are all kinds of politics. It's politics when a political boss builds up a machine which perpetuates itself by rewarding the faithful and setting up an efficient collection system—bad politics.

It's politics when an opposition party tries to turn public opinion against the majority by showing how the majority has abused its power. It's politics when light is turned into dark places and the inhabitants of those dark places squirm in discomfort—good politics.

The Davey administration insists it has done nothing to be ashamed of, and Ohioans hope it isn't kidding. Its critics, however, insist that the reason the administration doesn't want to be probed is because it's tender. In that case, there seems to be only one thing to do—probe until everybody's satisfied. Either the Davey administration can stand probing, or it can't. In the former event, it has nothing to fear. In the latter event, it's time for a show-down.

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, December 25

The planetary influences affecting this day are negligible, giving free scope for the indulgence in the festive and spiritual celebration of the day of "peace on earth" and to "men of good will." It is a time for friendliness, kindness, charity and the social functions conventional to the season. It might be well to sign any necessary papers with care and to refrain from petty irritabilities or indulgences.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a year in which very much in the way of progress and success is left to their own individual attack, energy and good will. Contracts and new business engage the attention and should receive shrewd and vigilant manipulation, with vexations and irritabilities held under firm control. Be wise in litigation and safeguard property.

A child born on this day may be very enterprising and lively, with the tendency to work under high pressure. But certain tempestuous and reckless traits call for early discipline.

For Sunday, December 26

Sunday's horoscope accents the merrymaking and indulgences of the holiday season, with prospects of extravagance and much pleasure, not only in friendly contacts but in romantic and sentimental adventures. It is a propitious time for celebration and generous impulses, but not to a regrettable extent. There should be some practical restraints.

Those whose birthday it is may have a very pleasant year, with much in the way of romantic adventure, romance and courtship. In this there may be an inclination to extravagance.

A child born on this day may be capable, ambitious, progressive and adventurous, particularly in all relating to its personal or sentimental life. It should have a happy and popular life, with much outlay in the pursuit of pleasure.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Thoughts while strolling: Note to Charlie McCarthy: All is forgiven. You are tops again! Why do actresses, wherever they meet, rush at one another, shouting "Darling!" Edna Ferber's becoming streak of white hair. What has become of Joe Cook?

Dude of the illustrators: Rae Van Buren. Harry Evans and Ernest Truex could pass for twins in a London fog. Triumph of a goofy laugh: Joe Penner. Mrs. Joseph Davies' "gleaming smile" would be swell for the announcer Bill Hay's collection. That always dignified lady: Mrs. Vincent Astor.

Kirsten Flagstad sounds like one of those meat dishes at Luchow's. Bruce Barton's marcelle would get him in the movies if congressing gets tough. Why not a club for the gallery god worshippers of Grace Von Studdiford? The forlorn looking George Palmer Putnam.

The next public collection should be for a new hat for Judge Landis. Nobody can get away with those perky midget hats like Mrs. Jack Dempsey. And Joe Laurie, Jr. is the only guy left who doesn't look like a gangster in a cap. What a press agent Schiaparelli must have.

Rhyme: For a graceful caper, I'll take Paul Draper. Those Helen Hodgkinson looking ladies at the Town Hall morning lectures. Oddities in nomenclature: John Charles Thomas has no last name and Courtney Ryley Cooper has no first. The last of the pompadors: George S. Kaufman's.

A style oracle declares not more than a dozen men in America know how to wear a hat with that certain dash—like Clive Brook, the actor, Jean Patou, the dressmaker. The majority set their hats too straight up and down. The exaggeration that gives Stan Laurel his comic effect. Victor Moore's best asset is wearing a hat that would be suitable for a man 75 pounds less in weight. By not carrying this disparity too far he achieves a more subtle effect than if he attempted broad burlesque. Ed Wynn of course, built his fame on cock-eyed hatting.

Several presidents have been careless about the tilt of their hats. President Franklin Roosevelt and ex-President Hoover, for instance. Calvin Coolidge never seemed able to find a hat entirely becomg. Grant's derby and Cleveland's silk hat were the topics of music hall ditties and jests. The most gifted American hat wearer is doubtless John Barrymore.

Alexander Woolcott seems to have stepped off the deep end without a farewell bow. While he shows up for an occasional radio broadcast on some special topic, he is mostly incommunicado in a retreat in his college town in Vermont. No one knows the why of his withdrawal from the literary and radio scene in which he has been such a conspicuous figure. Some say he is merely tired of it all and wants seclusion for meditation with perhaps a book or so to write in prospect. Others say his drastic efforts to reduce were responsible for a physical slow-up. Woolcott's closest friend is Neyna McMein, the illustrator. A platonic friendship, of course, for she is happily married to John Baragwanath, the mining engineer. She has been his confidant for years, his only correspondent while traveling.

The most accomplished of the Chinese dinners are given by the Roy Howards. Various dishes are cooked exactly to specifications from recipes picked up on their many visits to China and served according to native custom. Those invited are expected to use chop sticks, wrapped in cellophane at each plate-side, a packet which also contains an individual toothpick.

X-RAY

RECENTLY THERE was held in Chicago the Fifth International Congress of Radiology. More than 2,500 physicians from all parts of the United States attended this convention. Many delegates from foreign countries were present.

The latest developments in X-ray and radiology were presented. In his opening address, Dr. William J. Mayo, the well-known and much beloved surgeon, remarked that the first value of X-ray was its aid as a diagnostic tool. By this he meant the X-ray helps the doctor to recognize certain disorders. In addition to its value in detecting the presence of disease, it is of great value in treating certain ailments. The eminent surgeon pointed out that many cases of cancer, advanced beyond the point where the surgeon's knife can safely cut out the diseased tissues, are often controlled by the use of X-rays and radium.

Cures Many Ills

Within recent years many startling cures have been credited to this form of treatment. It is probable that as our knowledge increases more cures will be made possible. Let me make clear to you that many diseases heretofore unsatisfactorily treated by other methods, are now responding to treatment by the X-ray.

It is natural to fear what is not understood. Many dread the X-ray. This is the reason why some persons actually avoid the X-ray examination in spite of the recommendation by the doctor. This foolish delay may result in dreaded complications which will serve as an obstacle to ultimate cure.

It is true that the early pioneers in X-ray experimentation sacrificed their lives before the dangers of the powerful rays became known. But today it is so controlled that it is practically without danger.

Valuable Weapon

If you have been advised to have an X-ray examination, or if such treatment has been recommended, do not delay or deprive yourself of this valuable weapon against disease. It is often impossible to detect certain disorders unless the X-ray is used. It is only after an accurate diagnosis has been made that the proper treatment can be outlined.

If you have any doubt as to where to obtain the needed examination, consult with your doctor, the local medical society or board of health. In this way you will be directed to a specialist of known skill. You will be assured of obtaining a safe, scientific and approved examination. If treatment is needed, the doctor will outline the form suited to your needs.

Answers to Health Queries
Miss M. P. Q.—What do you advise for pimples and other blemishes on the face? I am a girl of 18 and have had these blemishes for about four years. Is it due to my diet?

—The diet and elimination are apt to be factors under such circumstances. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

Rev. Seales says of his subject "God has given four Gospels dealing with the words and deeds of Jesus Christ; and in the four Gospels He has twice recorded the genealogy of Jesus."

"It is most remarkable that the One born in a stable and cradled in a manger, should have a family lineage reaching back to Adam on one side and to King David on the other."

"From the garden of Eden to the crest of Golgotha, all prophecy concerning Jesus Christ divided into two distinct themes. The one prophesied of the Suffering One, as in Isaiah 52 and 53. The other prophesied of the reigning One, as in Isaiah 9:6."

"This same two-fold vision of Jesus Christ is presented in the angel's prophecies—Luke 1:30-33. In the eternities of the past God planned every page of His written Word. He omitted nothing that should be included and every part bears testimony to the wealth of wisdom of God and His plan."

CHURCH SERVICE

Sunday school 9:45 (Philippians 1:12-36); Charles W. Youtz, Supt. "When a person chooses a life purpose, that should mark an important step in life. This life purpose is going to be the guiding star all through this earthly journey. How different and strangely contrasting are the goals and ideals of people. Christian surrender to Christ is the finest and best of all life purposes for believers in the Gospel and life of the Savior. What does this mean? It actually means that you accept Jesus as your friend and Savior, and that your life will be lived on the basis of the teachings and message of Jesus. It means the surrender of unchristian attitudes. It means the surrender of personal goals if they are contrary to Christ. Selfish pleasure must be laid aside. Service must be the watchword. Sacrifice and sufferings must not be avoided if for Christ's sake."

Morning worship, 11, sermon, "The Christ-Child in Human Hearts."

"The reality and truth of the Christ of Christmas cannot be denied. It would be difficult to avoid its significance today. It is fact. It is truth. However facts cannot always bring their highest blessings unless they are properly a part of human nature. Truth outside the human heart might just as well be unknown as far as this truth being a blessing. Jesus Christ, as Savior and Lord must enter into the human heart to be the best and richest blessings that God intended His Son to be."

Calumet Club Dance Monday Headlines Yule Activities

The Christmas social season with its receptions and parties for holiday visitors and home-coming college students starts off this coming weekend on a round of important events which will carry over into the new year.

Topping the list of outstanding social attractions is the annual Calumet club dance which will be held at the Elks club ballroom Monday night from 9:30 to 1:30.

William K. Gibson of South Lincoln ave., who returned home yesterday from Columbia, Mo., where he is a journalism student at the University of Missouri, is general chairman of the dance which will feature the music of Johnny Martone and his orchestra of 12 artists.

Yearly one of the gayest fetes of the Christmas season, the Calumet dance is expected to attract more than 100 local couples and a large number of out-of-town guests who will visit here during the holidays.

Pre-dance parties, honoring holiday visitors, will be held in several Salem homes.

The Martone orchestra, which will play for the dancing, is known to radio listeners throughout the eastern and middle-western states. The band is known as "The Lombardo of Tomorrow" and has broadcast frequently over radio stations WHK in Cleveland, WADC in Akron and affiliated stations of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Less than a month ago, Martone and his orchestra auditioned at the Statler hotel in Cleveland for a group of eastern hotel and amusement executives.

Although Martone does not purposely copy the style made famous by Guy Lombardo, there is a similarity which results in his being called "The Lombardo of Tomorrow." Martone was trained at the same school as the Lombardo brothers.

The orchestra recently completed engagements at the Semler tavern in Akron and the Aragon ballroom in Cleveland.

JAPAN ISSUES NOT ON PANAY

Acknowledges Responsibility, Metes Out "Punishment"

Sanctioned By Emperor
Foreign Minister Koki Hirota personally handed the note to United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew at 7 p. m. tonight (5 a. m. EST.) after approval by the cabinet and sanction by Emperor Hirohito. The text was not published in Japan.

It answered American representations after bombing of the Panay and three Standard Oil vessels in the Yangtze above Nanking on Dec. 12.

These representations included a memorandum by President Roosevelt asking that the emperor be informed that the American President viewed the incident with concern.

Hirota did not make clear how the responsible bombers were punished except that they were dealt with "according to law."

day became and has remained the year's greatest and happiest day.

The Rev. Dr. Edgar Dewitt Jones, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America:

"Nothing could so become the generous spirit of America at the Christmas season as to share our sympathy and substance with the helpless and deserving both at home and abroad."

The Rev. Dr. A. W. Fortune, of Lexington, Ky., a leader of the Christian church:

"The message of Christmas is peace, which is the result of trust; it is good will which finds expression in giving. Our world, torn by war and a grasping spirit, needs that message."

Dean Charles W. Gilkey, of the University of Chicago Chapel (Baptist):

"Christmas has become the world's great supernatural festival. This is striking evidence of the contributions of Christianity, in the good will of understanding and feeling with among all nations, races and classes of men."

The Rev. Lewis S. Mudge, of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.:

"It would be a wonderful thing for the world and would bring rich blessing to all people if our rulers would obey the One who is called wonderful, counselor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace—to the increase of whose government and peace there shall be no end, and Who alone is able to execute judgment with justice throughout the world."

All In Day's Work For Highway Patrol

It's all in a days work for the state highway patrolman.

Patrolman C. W. Gale, aroused from his sleep this morning by the ringing of the telephone at the local bar, took a motorist on the other end of the line that he would be over shortly to investigate the reported accident.

The officer dressed hurriedly, got in the patrol car and crept slowly over the ice-covered highways for several miles.

Arriving at the accident scene, Gale discovered both motorists had left, apparently having settled their grievances.

Lisbon Children Visited by Santa

LISBON, Dec. 24.—Youngsters here caught their first glimpse of Santa Claus this afternoon at a party sponsored by the Kiwanis club and Chamber of Commerce.

The old fellow appeared at the Lincoln theater bearing large quantities of candy and nuts which he distributed to the 200 kiddies on hand for the event.

Robert Madigan, manager of the theater, provided a program of juvenile pictures for the young guests.

Card from Borgwardt

LISBON, Dec. 24.—Sheriff and Mrs. Harry L. Gosney and the deputies sheriffs this morning received a Christmas card from a person they didn't expect would remember them, especially in that way.

The greeting was from Johannes Borgwardt, 23, who was found guilty of second degree murder here recently and sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for life. He wished them all a "Merry Christmas."

Find Abandoned Car

LISBON, Dec. 24.—An abandoned 1936 Ford coupe, belonging to William Opperman of Ambridge, Pa., its license plates gone, was found in a field on the McFadden farm, two miles east of here, this morning.

The sheriff's office also reported the recovery of an automobile stolen earlier in the week from Clyde Hadley of Lisbon. The car was found near the junction of Routes 7 and 30.

Holiday theater entertainment continues through next week with several outstanding features booked.

A double bill opens Monday to show through Tuesday at the State. The pictures are: "Night Club Scandal", a murder mystery with John Barrymore, Lynne Overman, Charles Bickford, Harvey Stephens, Louise Campbell, Evelyn Brent and Elizabeth Patterson; and a Wheel-ers and Woolsey comedy, "High Flyers", with Lupe Velez, Marjorie Lord, Margaret Dumont and Jack Carson.

Robert Young, James Stewart and Lionel Barrymore have the leading roles in the delightful romance, "Navy Blue and Gold", which will be seen Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the State. Billie Burke, Florence Rice, Tom Brown, Samuel S. Hinds, Paul Kelly and Barnett Parker have supporting roles.

Midnight Show
As a New Year's eve midnight show feature the State will offer the bright new musical, "Rosalie", which co-stars Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell. The film, which has rated excellent reviews from critics, will be seen first on Friday night, New Year's eve, at the midnight performance which is scheduled for 11:45. It will show through Saturday, (New Year's day) and Sunday and Monday.

Also featured in the film are Frank Morgan, Edna May Oliver, Ray Bolger, Lila Masey, Billy Gilbert, Reginald Owen and many other favorites.

Concluding tonight at the State is the double bill: "Dr. Syn" (George Arliss, John Loder, Margaret Lockwood) and "Living on Love" (James Dunn and Whitney Bourne).

Fred Astaire, George Burns and Gracie Allen and Joan Fontaine will be seen in "Damsel in Distress", at the State Saturday, (Christmas day) and Sunday.

They Meet
Miss Fontaine, a titled British girl, trying to avoid a distasteful marriage, meets Fred Astaire, a bashful, retiring American dancer, who has been given a London build-up as a "heart-breaker" by his press agents, Miss Allen and George Burns. With the interference and guidance of half a dozen interested persons, servants, friends, and relatives, the comedy pursues its entertaining course in usual fashion of a P. G. Wodehouse story.

The Grand will present a return showing of the early film success, "Trader Horn", on Monday and Tuesday.

LOWER ISSUES MARKET REPORT

Cooperating Farming
Hits $2,041,000 Figure During '37

2,000 acres of pasture to forest and treatment of 30,000 acres of pasture. Lime is needed for the latter with a suggested expenditure of $41,781 annually for ten years.
Adult education, 4-H club work and rural youth activities also are touched on in the report. Under the supervision of John Strassbaugh, Lower's assistant, 39 4-H clubs with a total enrollment of 555 boys and girls conducted 588 projects during the year. Activities included tours, demonstrations, club congress, and state fair trips, camping, county fair exhibits and leaders training meetings.

Instruction Given
Adult education included eight rural forums, a program building course, church cooperation, rural library and correlation of all rural agencies and organizations.

Under the heading of community activities are listed nine Farmer's Institutes with an aggregate attendance of 9,941. Assistance was given the county farm bureau, eight township farm bureaus, ten farm cooperatives and 23 granges.

Approximately 38 percent of the cattle in the county has been tested for Bang's disease—a disease affecting livestock. During the year, 2,826 cattle in 236 herds were examined for this ailment. Two sheep parasite demonstration meetings also were held.

Lower estimates the savings in this county from his rat eradication campaign at $21,700. Over a ton of a specially prepared poison was sold to 1,550 farmers and villagers and to the service's "rat banquet" Nov. 18.

Total benefits coming to the county for participation in agricultural adjustment and conservation programs reached $56,000. One hundred and fifty one meetings promoting this phase of the bureau's activities were held; 176 workers trained and 1,300 farms measured in the 1937 program.

Homes Electrified
In connection with the report Lower stated over 1,000 homes had been electrified in county rural districts during the past 18 months with approximately 100 miles of line hung during this period. Considerable electrification work will be done in the southern part of the county, particularly during 1938.

The county aided financially in the construction of a 50,000-bushel cold storage plant at Greenford, Mahoning county. Fruit growers from both counties own the building which is proving of material help in preserving surplus fruit crops.

Warning Men!

WEST ALLIS Wis., Dec. 24.—The common council has its own remedy for the problem of the working wife.

The six bachelors among the city's 200 employees are going to hear all about it, too.

City Clerk Fred Sanlader said the councilmen had voted to warn all single men on the West Allis payroll they would lose their jobs upon marriage if their brides were gainfully employed and did not immediately give up such employment.

Merger Proposed

TIFFIN, Dec. 24—Plans for consolidation of the United States Glass company's plants here were discussed today. Taylor B. Biggs, secretary of the Tiffin Chamber of Commerce, announced that plants at Pittsburgh, Glassport, Pa., and Gas City, Ind., would be moved here by next July 1, and that company offices would be moved from Pittsburgh next month.

Pest's car into the front of the Crapster machine. Both Pest and Crapster assisted in carrying Vaughn from the street to the doorway of the Singer Sewing Machine store and remained with him until an ambulance came.

Pest then went directly to the police station to report the accident, while Crapster told his story to Policemen James Hassey and George Reash who arrived on the scene shortly after the mishap occurred.

Didn't See Vaughn
Pest told officers that he did not see Vaughn until he was directly in front of his machine. Vaughn was unconscious when carried from the street, but had regained consciousness by the time the ambulance arrived. Mrs. Vaughn, grief-stricken by the accident which happened in front of her eyes, accompanied her husband to the hospital.

Police this afternoon had not been able to locate any eye-witnesses to the accident outside of Mrs. Vaughn and the other persons involved.

A crowd of noonday shoppers and passersby gathered shortly after the mishap occurred but none had seen the accident happen.

JAPS ADVANCE INTO HANGCHOW

Rich Chinese Seaport and Capital of Chekiang Province Surrender to Invaders

SHANGHAI, Dec. 24—Japanese tonight announced that Hangchow, rich Chinese seaport and capital of Chekiang province 100 miles south of Shanghai, was captured today by troops simultaneously entering all the city's gates.

Fall of the city to invaders who have overrun thousands of square miles of territory came as United States authorities made strong representations to Japanese over a reported insult to the American flag at Wuhu, Dec. 13.

There was no information immediately on the extent of fighting around Hangchow, but indications were that the city had capitulated to avoid bombing, shelling and street fighting.

The six Americans in Hangchow were believed to be safe. The Japanese spokesman also announced that a strong Japanese force had crossed the Yellow river in Shantung province, obtaining a foothold on its southern bank.

Since Japanese had declared at Tientsin that Chinese who had destroyed Japanese mills at Tsingtao, Shantung province seaport, would face "drastic punitive action," it was believed Japanese had begun a general Shantung offensive. Three hundred Americans were ready to leave Tsingtao on three American warships in case of attack there.

Hangchow was the fifth of China's great cities to fall into the hands of invaders who already had hoisted the rising sun flag in Peiping, Tientsin, Shanghai and Nanking.

DODGERS GAIN THIRD WIN IN CLASS A LOOP

Althouse Team Defeats Columbians To Remain On Top

Remaining in a tie for first place in the Class A City Basketball league, the Althouse Dodgers chalked up their third win of the season by trimming the Columbians, 27 to 17, at the Memorial building gym last night.

The Dodgers, defending champions of the Class A loop, are headed for the lead with Shasteen-Sinclair team, although the Althouse quiet has recorded three wins to Shasteen's two. Neither team has been defeated thus far.

Al Catlos, former New River college star, paced the Dodgers to their third win, hooping four field goals and three fouls for 11 points and high-scoring honors.

The Dodgers trailed at the close of the first period, but rallied in the second frame to go out in front 15 to 9 at halftime. They increased their advantage to 18 to 11 by the time the third period ended.

Two Class B league games were played along with the Class A contest on last night's Memorial building cage program.

The Methodists and Junior Saxons won the Class B tilts, the former grabbing a 23 to 22 overtime victory over Reich's Trojans and the latter grabbing a 23 to 22 overtime victory over Reich's Trojans and the latter losing out to the Columbians, 21 to 19.

The Methodists trailed throughout the first three periods before hitting their stride in the final frame to tie the score at 22-22 when regulation playing time ended. The overtime period saw the M. E.'s tally one-point on a free throw to win.

Lora and Earley were high-scorers for the Methodists, the former collecting nine points and the latter seven.

Starting a sensational last-quarter spurt, after trailing by six points at the end of the third period, the Saxons became the first team to defeat the Columbians this season.

The Saxons were on the short end of a 14 to 8 score when they started their final spurt. They scored 13 points in the last frame, while the Columbians went blank.

A scheduled Class B game between the Baptists and the Christians was won by the Christians on a forfeit.

BOWLING RESULTS

Standings in the Commercial Bowling league remained stationary for a change today after top ranking teams emerged victorious in league matches at the Grate Recreation alleys last night.

The first-place Salem News defended its two-game lead by taking two out of three games with the Ohio Belle. The Sinclairs remained close on the News trail in second place by winning two out of three games from Smith's Creamery.

Hottest match from the point of rivalry last night was the one between the two Leontia teams, Berg Bretzels and the Crescent Machine Shop. The Bretzels came out on top in two games to hold on to their fifth place position in the league standings.

In other matches, the Salem Engineers upset the Junior Saxons in three games and the Grate Recreation kepters won two out of three heats from Merit Shoes.

Bowling in the Electric Furnace and Bliss leagues enjoyed a good night at the Masonic temple alleys as scores, in general, were better than any turned in by these two leagues this season.

The Panthers remained on top in the Furnace loop by winning two out of three games from the Tigers, while the Pattern Shop moved into first place in the Bliss circuit on the strength of three wins over the Engineers.

MASSILLON ACE LEADS BUCKEYE ALL-STAR TEAM

Bob Glass Stars In Ohio High School Team's Win In Florida

(By Associated Press) ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 24.—Bobby Glass, fullback from the Massillon championship prep team of Ohio, led an All-Ohio eleven to a 19-0 victory over the Florida West Coast All-Stars in a "Kumquat bowl" game here last night.

The Ohioans scored in all but the final quarter. Glass was a sparkplug of the offense and twice carried the ball to pay dirt.

Fred Rauch, Cincinnati halfback, made a 10-yard plunge in the second period for the other touchdown.

The Florida boys opened a rally in the last quarter but it ended on the Ohio 18.

Glass started with a march from Florida's 46 in the first period. He ran 24 yards and then passed to Carl Snavely, his Massillon teammate, for another gain of eight.

Snavely was injured on the play and taken from the game.

Rauch, halfback, carried the ball to a first down on the Florida nine. In three plays he placed it on the two-yard stripe, from where Glass rushed it over. A kick for point was wide.

Midway in the second period, Glass returned a punt from his own 45 to the Florida 30. A pass, Barille to Glass, netted ten yards. Glass picked up eight in two plays and came out of the game, injured. Rauch took the ball over, hitting the center of the line. He kicked the extra point from placement and Ohio led 13-0.

The last Ohio scoring charge started in the middle of the third, when Rauch found a big hole through tackle on the 28 and sprinted for the last touchdown.

MARIETTA FIVE UPSET BY CASE

Scientists Nose Out Conference Champs With Overtime Frame

(By Associated Press) Case School of Applied Science nosed out Marietta's case machine, the 1935 Ohio conference champions, by a 50 to 47 score last night in a sensational overtime contest.

The Cleveland quintet's sole sophomoric member, Art Schweitzer sent a long shot through the net to knot the score at 47-all with but five seconds left to play.

Schweitzer, substitute forward, also sank the basket that sent Case ahead in the extra period.

Ray Mickovsky caged the final point from the free throw line.

Bob Tate, brilliant Marietta guard, led the field with 20 points tallied on nine goals and two gift shots. The Scientists led, 24 to 21, at half-time.

Marshall's basketekers, winding up a victorious eastern trip, met their first defeat on the road at the hands of St. Thomas college in Scranton, Pa. The score was 47 to 39. The Huntington, W. Va., team led, 25 to 20, at the half.

Methodists Gain Third Win In Class C Cage League Thursday

The defending champion Methodist team of the Class C basketball league recorded its third victory of the first round at the Memorial building yesterday, defeating the Emmanuel Lutherans, 9 to 8, in an overtime contest.

The low-scoring contest was close throughout the entire four periods and at the end of the regulation playing time the count was deadlocked at 8-all. A converted foul shot gave the Methodists the victory.

The Junior Trojans also chalked up their third win of the first round to remain in a tie with the Methodists for the lead. The Trojans defeated the Baptists, 22 to 11.

"Tut" Guappone tallied 11 points to lead the Columbians to a lopsided 22 to 11 victory over the Christians in the other Class C game.

"Beauty's A Charm" by HARRIET HINSDALE

CHAPTER XXXVI

"We'll zoom out of here in time to set this lad down in Carterton all ready to greet Lucy Lee when she arrives. How's that, my fine friend?" He slapped Clyde heartily on the shoulder, pleased as a boy with his scheme.

"Gosh, Bruce, that's great of you. I know just the place to land, too. There's an open space near Rosemead; used to be a practice track when they raised race horses on the plantation. No trees on it, or wires near by or anything. There was a ring of excitement in Clyde's words. His eyes glistened. "Won't Lucy Lee be surprised to see us and boy, won't it be fine to be back home again!"

"Figuring it as about eighteen hundred to two thousand miles down there," Ames calculated, "we ought to do it in—say, how fast does this new boat of yours travel?"

"Cruising speed of about one hundred and fifty."

"Then we ought to make it easily in less than fourteen hours flying time. Suppose we pull out tomorrow morning early. How will that be?"

"Great," assented Loring and Clyde in chorus. The actor fixed Ames with a stern and knowing gaze. "Remember, fella—no publicity? Get that? Nix on the bally-hoo. We'll just drift down there and back without the papers or the studio being any the wiser. I know what you're aching to do with the yarn, but this time, lay off. No monkey business. Get me?"

"Aye, aye, skipper. Dumb's the word on this cruise. But listen, you got me wrong, honest you did," Ames added plaintively. "It never entered my innocent young mind to broadcast the yarn."

"No, not any more than a cat would think of lapping cream. I know you too well, you big bum."

"My pal," grinned the press agent.

"You birds can phone me when to be ready in the morning," Loring said. "Be seeing you then." He went in to the dressing-room where his Japanese boy was waiting to help him take off his make-up and change into street clothes.

Clyde and Don Ames left the bungalow together, the former as hopeful now as he had been downcast when they entered. They walked across the lot to his dressing-room. Perhaps he had not lost Lucy Lee after all. Of course he didn't deserve to be forgiven for what he had done and said last night but if he could only make her understand how sorry he was... he would spend the rest of his life trying to make her happy. What a grand guy Bruce was. If there were more like him in Hollywood it would be a marvelous place. Here he was, taking that beautiful new low-wing monoplane of his, the finest job of its kind on the Coast, to taxi a fellow two thousand miles! There was a pal for you. Just like that time on the island when he hurt his foot and Bruce waited on him like a nurse, cooking his food and everything.

"They don't come much finer than old Bruce," he mused. "He's always there in the pinches."

"You said it, Big Boy. He's a prince. But I still think it's a dirty shame he killed the story. Can't you feature the headlines? 'Star Aids Hero Friend,' 'Loring Saves Sweethearts,' 'Romance Rides the Air.' How I could go to town on that yarn! It's breaking my heart not to use it."

"I'll break your neck if you do," Clyde assured him. "So you'd better lay off, like he said."

"You will?" exclaimed Ames, with a chuckle. "And how many more? What's the idea, you big lug? Publicity put you on the map didn't it? Where would you have been without the old ballyhoo, huh?"

"Right where I'm heading for tomorrow morning fast as the plane will carry me," replied Clyde.

They were in his dressing-room and he was smearing his face with cold cream to remove the make-up. "If it hadn't been for your darned bally-hoo Lucy Lee and I would never have left Carterton in the first place. Well, we're going to forget it, see, and settle down again like regular folks."

"That may be true, but don't overlook the fact that my circling won't get you a wad you wouldn't have got your mitts on in fifty years, young fella," the press agent reminded him. "Unless you happened to strike oil, or something."

"I know and I appreciate it, too. I've got more dough now than I ever dreamed of having. Why, down in Carterton they'll think I'm as rich as Henry Ford. But don't you see, Don—all the money in the world doesn't make any difference if I've lost Lucy Lee. The only reason I wanted it in the first place was to do things for her."

"Like putting a new roof on Rosemead?" Ames suggested with a quirk of the eyebrows. "That's what she yearned for most, you know."

"If Lucy Lee will just take me back, she can put a solid gold roof on the old house, for all I care. It would be worth it, to see her happy." He flung down the towel with which he had been wiping off his face and stared at himself in the mirror. "Lord, but I'm glad to get that greasy stuff off my homely pan. Never again, for me. I'm through with trying to be an actor. If any of the big shots around the studio ask about me you can say I've gone back to Louisiana and motor grease. It's more in my line."

Rosemead, dreaming in the Southern sun, its stately facade of mellow brick and tall white pillars patterned by the flickering shadows of tall trees.

Dark green cedars marching in two dignified lines from the road to the house. Tangled thicket of roses ran riot, creamy white and golden pink, lavishly scattering their rich perfume on the ambient air.

When the returning travelers drove up to the house in the old station wagon which had met trains at the junction for the past twenty years they saw, to their astonishment, smoke rising above the trees. For one desperate moment fear clutched at Lucy Lee. Rosemead was on fire! Else why the pillar of smoke? Then she realized that it was rising decorously from the kitchen chimney as it had done, ever since she could remember, when Gardenia was at her culinary tasks. But of course it could not be Gardenia getting dinner. No one knew they were returning. She had net let a soul in Carterton know that the Carter family was coming back home. Yet that was certainly smoke rising from the kitchen chimney. But how—and why?

Now that she was actually driving up the cedar bordered road to the half circle drive before the house, Lucy Lee's heart was heavy within her breast. Each mile the train had moved had made her realize she was going farther and farther away from Clyde. The first burst of resentment, indignation and deep hurt which had made possible her decision to leave Hollywood passed in a few hours, leaving her heartick and regretful. Why had she acted so hastily? Not even giving Clyde a chance to explain.

It was no use telling herself that no girl ought to forgive a man for saying and doing what he had done. Her pride did not sustain her now, except during the daylight hours when she must pretend to Daddy Carter and Juddy that she was as glad as they were to be going back home. At night in her berth she had lain awake endless weary hours listening to the grinding of the train wheels, with but one thought in her tired brain. "I've lost Clyde... I've lost Clyde..."

Each turn of the wheels seemed to say, grinding the words into her very soul with pitiless reiteration. Yet next day, as the ramshackle station wagon came up the driveway to Rosemead, Lucy Lee felt a belated thrill of gladness. After all, this was home. The kindly old house seemed to welcome them benignly. As a child she had often fancied it was almost on the verge of actually speaking to her, so wise and friendly did it appear. Now it might have been saying, "This is where you belong, child." The ancient cedars nodded a greeting, too, as she passed. And there was old Billy Boy getting creakily up and wagging his tail, as he barked his joy.

Juddy jumped down off the slowly moving wagon and hugged the old dog. Billy Boy licked Juddy's face ecstatically, for the moment feeling young and spry again. The carryall stopped before the wide steps of the veranda and the negro driver, under Wakefield Carter's direction, began to unload the luggage. Lucy Lee walked directly up the steps to the broad mahogany door, with its antique brass knocker and exquisitely graceful fanlight. She must find out at once who was in the kitchen and why there was smoke rising from the chimney.

We hope the tinkle of Santa's bells will bring you all good cheer this year, and ever after.

The door opened and a young man stood there in the cool, shadowy hall.

"Welcome home," were the words which greeted her, and giving utterance only to a little cry of glad surprise, Lucy Lee walked straight into the eager, outstretched arms of Clyde.

There was no need of explanations which would come later, in their own good time. All she knew or cared was that this was Clyde... his arms about her once again... his beloved voice whispering: "This is where you belong, honey girl. Welcome home!"
